EDITORIAL

We are pleased to present to you the second published edition of "Cook's Log." We feel that last year's standard has been improved upon and we hope future magazines will contain still further improvements.

The Committee thanks all the pupils who submitted contributions and we encourage those whose work is not published to work harder for next year. "Cook's Log" is the pupils' magazine and not only are the literary contributions our work but also the sporting and administrative articles.

Special thanks go to the teachers and pupils comprising the Financial Committee, without whose efforts this magazine would not be its present size.

A Tribute . . .

He was our friend—yours as well as mine—a real friend, ever ready to help with advice or with things more tangible—a friend to whom nothing was too much trouble; whose unselfish work in the community won the respect and admiration of all who came to know him, even remotely.

During nearly thirty years of devoted service to the cause of Education in this State, he came into contact with thousands who cannot but have been permanently influenced, if only in a minor way, by the dedication of this man to teaching in its truest sense. There were no half measures with Bob Baker. He threw himself into his appointed task wholeheartedly, giving to it not only what was required, but so much more. We only have to look around our own School to see the physical evidence of this, and in years to come our grounds should become a living memorial to this unforgettable man whom we are proud to remember as our friend.

CAPTAIN'S MESSAGE

As this year comes to an end, my feelings are mixed. I feel an excitement at the prospects ahead, but also sorrow that my school days will soon be over. The influence of James Cook High School on my life and character shall be everlasting and of great benefit to me in my life ahead.

During this year, I have had every co-operation and backing from the vice-captains and prefects and the willingness and eagerness they have shown in the execution of their duties have made my task very much easier. They deserve every praise and have already been praised highly for their efficiency by the Headmaster, Mr. Foster. I also owe a personal debt of gratitude to Mr. Foster and the staff for the help and guidance which they have given me during my time at the school.

This year has witnessed a marked effect on the school because of the near-completion of the playing fields and the beautifying of the surroundings of the school, improvements which must surely soon make it one of the most picturesque in the district. This year has also had its touch of tragedy with the passing of our Deputy Headmaster, Mr. Baker, who was mainly responsible for the fine work achieved on the grounds. His death was a great loss to the community, to the school and to us.

On behalf of the boys of fifth year, I would like to extend thanks to the staff for the invaluable education and help which they have given us, and I hope we have done our part in upholding and developing the honour and tradition of James Cook High School.

—TOM SHEPHERD

STAFF NOTES

Fewer staff changes occurred this year.

After Mr. Baker's death, his duties as Deputy Headmaster were taken over by Mr. G. Brown, the Mathematics Master, Mr. Brown's position being filled by Mr. W. Laird. Further changes on the Mathematics staff involved Mr. A. Clements who left for Great Britain and was replaced by Mr. J. Esers, who later transferred to Blackfriars' Correspondence School, while Mr. J. Aspinall arrived from Scunthorpe, England, and Miss L. R. Patterson from Burntisland, Scotland.

Mr. R. Beddis of Gloucester, England, joined the English staff and during the year Mrs. K. Wright, Librarian, resigned because of ill health and was replaced by Mrs. E. Sparks.

From the Science Department, Mr. J. Turner was transferred to Yanco Agricultural High, and was replaced by Mr. K. Joyce from Sydney Teachers' College.

The Language staff lost Mrs. A. Henry, who transferred to the Department of Education Counselling Service, and was replaced by Mr. A. Grant from Drummoyne High.

PREFECTS

Standing: A. Day, J. Howells, P. Miles, K. Birkett, C. Stanger, D. Johnson, R. Greenfield, L. Norton, J. Last, A. Werry, R. Crawford, R. Erskine, G. Stone, P. Atherden, C. Lynch.
Seated: P. Hulme, R. Longbottom, Mr. F. Falker (Prefects Master), Mr. W. Foster (Headmaster), Mr. G. Brown (Acting Deputy Headmaster), R. Warren, J. Robson.
Absent: T. Shepherd, M. Coombs.

INDUCTION OF PREFECTS, 1962

In the School Assembly Hall on the morning of March 8th, the induction of the present prefects was performed. The ceremony commenced at 11 o'clock in the presence of the staff and pupils. The tradition of the prefect and the historical aspect of the principle of prefects was explained by Mr. Bowser. The prefects' pledge was then made collectively by the prefects and Mr. Foster presented each boy with a badge.

THE PLEDGE

I,....., do solemnly promise that I will, at all times, carry out the high duties of a Prefect of the School to the best of my ability and without fear or favour uphold the honour of James Cook High School.

THE LIBRARY REPORT

1962 has seen great changes in the school library. New shelves have been delivered and installed by the Dept. of Education to house the 2,500 new books that have been donated by all boys of the school as a result of a drive by Mr. Foster to build up our library.

Most of the books are in perfect condition which proves that the boys at our school know how to "use" and not "abuse" books. Thank you, boys, for the marvellous response. Our thanks also to Mr. Paterson and the boys for making the attractive wrought-iron holders for the wall vases and thanks to the permanent work force namely:— Nick Abrams, Max Reidy, Phillip Mead, Roger Rowland, John Harris and David Burrill, of 3B class, who are doing a magnificent job preparing all the new books for the typists.

We have spent about £700 on new books this year and added another 1,000 books to the shelves. It is our earnest hope that by the time this article comes to press 50 new chairs ordered for the library will have arrived. They will make the library more comfortable for the readers.

Mrs. Wright, Librarian.

PARENTS AND CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION ACTIVITIES

The School P. & C. Association continued to be active during the past twelve months and provided further equipment for the School and Assembly Hall. As has been customary in the past a budget was formulated early in the year and a total sum of £1860 has been allocated to the various School Departments.

The major portion of this allocation has been expended as follows:—

Department—	£
Commerce, Oposcope and Screens	264
Science, Equipment	300
Manual Arts, Project and Equipment	136
Sports, Trophy Case and Equipment	136
Music, Equipment	30
Hobbies, Photo Equipment	26
General, Honour Boards	45
Maps, etc.	70
Projector, Screens, Stands, etc.	241
Assembly Hall, Portogas Equipment	148
	<hr/>
	1396
Funds allocated and not yet spent include—
Assembly Hall, Murals	50
General, Stalls, etc., for Fetes	310
Other Items	204
	<hr/>
	464
	£1860

The Ladies' Auxiliary, Masters and Students have all contributed to the success of the past twelve months and, in particular, the teachers and students of the Manual Arts Department.

During the year the Ladies' Auxiliary and the Association conducted several functions with considerable success. In particular the Social Evening in August at the Beverley Golf Club deserves special mention.

Parents are invited to attend the Association meetings, which are held on the third Wednesday of each month. A special request to attend is made to the parents of the Junior School pupils. Opinions and ideas are welcomed and a pleasant evening is assured.

R. Clark, Chairman.
R. Coombs, Secretary.

SPEECH NIGHT, 1961

The Fifth Annual Speech Night of the James Cook Boys' High School was held on Monday evening, December 11, 1961.

The Headmaster, Mr. W. Foster, M.A., reported that the year had been one of significant advance by the school.

Academically the school was showing maturity and this year 75 candidates were presented at the Leaving Certificate examination. At the Intermediate examination there was 238 candidates, 86 per cent. of whom were successful.

Thanks to the efforts of the P. and C. Association, equipment to the value of almost £2000 has been donated to the school. Included was an epidiascope, cricket practice nets, hall furnishings, sound equipment, and special science and manual arts equipment.

The library appeal has ensured the library's continued growth. Mr. Foster said he felt that within a few years the library would be one of the finest in the State.

Another significant advance had been the setting out of the school grounds into three playing fields and the planting of over 150 trees. The only facility not yet available is a gymnasium.

Turning from the school's record over the past year, Mr. Foster made a challenging comment on the new plan for secondary schools which begins in 1962.

He praised the value of this new scheme, which encourages pupils to remain at school for an additional year.

However, he pointed out that the proposed retention of the Intermediate Certificate examination struck at the very heart of the scheme. This exam. must be abolished if the new four and six year courses were to be successful, he said.

The school owed special thanks to the visiting clergy, the P. and C., the Ladies' Auxiliary and all interested parents. Mr. Foster expressed his gratitude to the staff, for their professional attitude and conscientious work, much of it after normal hours.

Chairman for the evening was Mr. R. Clark, President of the P. and C. Association.

Among the distinguished visitors were Mr. D. Bowra, B.A., Area Secondary Schools' Inspector; Mr. R. S. Dart, B.A., District Inspector of Schools; Mr. L. Reynolds, M.H.R. for Barton; Mr. B. Bannon, M.L.A. for Rockdale; and Ald. T. McCarthy, Mayor of Rockdale.

The presentation of academic prizes was made by Mrs. Neil and Mrs. Hooper.

VISITING CLERGY

The scripture lessons each Friday have been conducted by a large group of ministers and assistants. The School is very appreciative of their attendance and of the valuable contributions they have made in the Christian education of the boys.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

I am pleased to report once again on a successful year of activity from the Ladies' Auxiliary. Some of the social events of the year were a "Lyric" Beauty Care Demonstration, a delightful Mannequin Parade arranged by Mrs. Val Neil, and a Mothers' Day Stall for the benefit of the boys. Also several luncheons were arranged for various sports carnivals, etc., and I would like to thank those ladies who were so generous with their time and energy on these occasions.

The Fifth Year Farewell Dinner was a huge success, and I'm sure was appreciated by the students completing their schooling at James Cook. There was also a very bright Social Evening held at the school at the end of the year which was well attended and quite successful.

The Beverley Park Annual Invitation Dance was a pleasant evening again this year, and those of you who were able to be present I am sure enjoyed a very nice evening. If you weren't able to be present I hope you will try and be there next year.

In conclusion, I would like to say thank you to all those who have supported and assisted us during the year, and I trust we will be seeing you in the future. Please mothers, try and come to one of our meetings, which are held on the second Tuesday in each month at 1.30 p.m., or perhaps the P. and C. meetings held the third Wednesday in each month at 8 p.m. We do need you! Do come and join us.

Mrs. B. Mather, President, Ladies' Auxiliary.

THE SENIOR CHOIR

The Senior Choir, under the competent leadership of Mr. Reid, has had a successful year. Membership increased considerably, as did the quality of the singing.

This year, together with many other metropolitan high school choirs, we sang in the annual Choral Concert at the Sydney Town Hall. This was a great success and all who participated benefited considerably through the experience gained.

At a Moorefield Girls' High School Concert, our choir combined with the girls' choir for several items. As well, the choir has presented items at various school functions, making the year an active and enjoyable one.

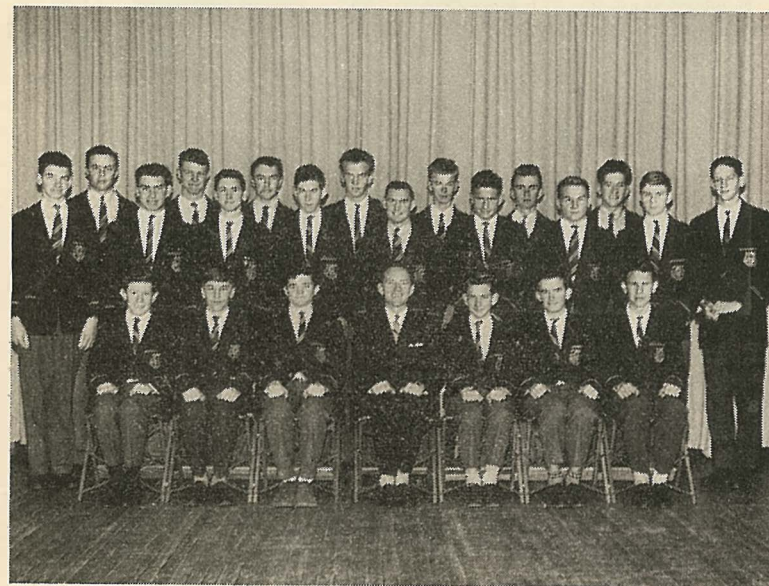

— R. Erskine, Fifth Year.

MUSIC REPORT

This year, a new music class, following the Board of Secondary School Studies Syllabus, was established. Eleven second year boys elected to pursue this course to the Intermediate Certificate. These lads are doing very well, devoting their four periods each week to the study of musical reading, writing, composition, appreciation, history and practice.

For the 1962 series of A.B.C. Schools' Orchestral Concerts, it was not convenient as in past years, to organise large numbers of second year pupils to attend. Perhaps this is unfortunate. However, the eleven "special class" pupils were able to attend and received great benefit and interest from them.

Massed singing reached a very high standard during the year and four very successful assemblies were held in the School Hall. The most notable of these were the Anzac Day Ceremony and a memorial service to the late Robert Baker.

SENIOR CHOIR

Standing: M. Glynn, B. Langhams, N. Coombes, J. Kinny, R. Little, R. Warren, R. Erskine, G. Ellery, G. Gordon, B. Revell, R. Luland, G. Coxon, G. Bolla, R. Howden, A. Werry, T. Ethell.

THE ANNUAL ORAL EXAMINATION OF THE "ALLIANCE FRANCAISE"

The oral examination of the Alliance Francaise is held annually. This is an examination in the French language for school pupils. It consists of a dictation, reading and conversation in French. The examination is open to all school children who are students of French and who are not of French origin.

At the beginning of August, 56 pupils from our school sat for this examination. This was the largest number hitherto to enrol from our school, and the first year that fifth year pupils had entered. Our examiner was Madame Boutillier, who was most helpful.

After the examination, everyone, including Mr. Perrin, waited tensely for the results. On 17th August, the names of the successful candidates were published in "Le Courrier Australien". It was gratifying to note that 48 of the 56 candidates had passed. Unfortunately two boys were unable to complete the exam. through illness.

The successful candidates will receive a certificate in French declaring that they passed the examinations. The pupil who came first in each year will receive a book prize.

Our thanks go to our French teacher, Mr. Perrin, who spent arduous hours preparing us for the examination. We hope that next year even more pupils will sit for the examination, and bring credit to themselves and to our school.

Five boys, who are preparing for Honours at the Leaving Certificate in French, will sit for the special written and oral examination called "Le Concoûrs General". The boy who gains first place in N.S.W. in this examination will receive a trip to Noumea as his prize. Our very best wishes to these candidates.

—J. Robson, 5th Year.

This year's candidates for the Alliance Francaise exams were:—

2nd Year: P. Barnes, G. Bennett, D. Belinfante, A. Croft, R. Falkemire, D. Johnston, R. Moffitt, S. McDonald, W. Passlow, S. Stephen, J. Vander Have.

THE CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club was founded in May by Ken Howells, Malcolm Gordon and Stephen Warwick. The club meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays during the lunch break. John Braithwaite is trying hard to become our senior champion, while Peter Csolanozi is attacking the junior title.

There are many promising juniors who will soon be able to play inter-house chess and possibly inter-school competition chess. Many boys have entered the club to learn how to play and observe the movements of the chess pieces on a large board, 3' x 4', which was provided by Mr. Perrin. More chess sets will be purchased by Mr. Twigg at a later date.

The club hopes to meet more regularly and welcome additional members in 1963.

—Stephen Warwick, 5th Year.

I. S. C. F.

This is the second full year in which the Inter-School Christian Fellowship has been functioning in this school. The aim of this Group is to provide Christian fellowship and instruction in the Word of God. Representatives are drawn from all five years, though fourth year is poorly represented, while on occasions fifth year has provided about 50 per cent. of the total attendance.

We are grateful to Mr. Hegarty for his most enjoyable colour slides and informative talks, which have twice drawn over sixty pupils. The meetings, held every Monday, are usually centred around an interesting talk which is delivered by either a guest speaker or a member of the committee. During second term an afternoon meeting with Moorefield High was arranged, and this proved most successful. One hundred and forty pupils attended this function, which featured a Fact and Faith colour movie.

Our attendance this year for an average meeting has been 33. We would like to remember Mr. Baker, who was always so kind and helpful to us. We would also like to thank Mr. Joyce for his time and experience. This year's committee consists of Mr. Bowser (Counsellor), K. Birkett (President), A. Werry (Advertising), P. Hulme (Secretary), G. Stanger, C. Livingstone and G. Sheather.

THE PHOTOGRAPHIC CLUB

During the second term this year, the school's first Photographic Club was inaugurated under the patronage of Mr. J. Brook. It has been the aim of the club to give informative lectures and discussions on every aspect of photography. The average attendance at our meetings has been forty-five, and on one occasion the figure rose to one hundred and twenty!

This is a club run almost entirely by the boys, and talks have been given on such subjects as "Colour Slide Toning," "How to Build Your Own Projector," and "How to Develop and Print Your Own Photographs."

A photographic contest was run during the term, the response to which was overwhelming with seventy-four colour slides and over thirty black-and-white prints entered. Those who received the prizes totalling £10, donated by the School, were R. Greig (4th Year), W. Foster (4th Year), R. Lee (4th Year), B. Langhans (5th Year), J. Owen (2C), P. Keywood (4th Year), T. Ethell (4th Year), G. Foster (2A), F. Stocks (4th Year) and J. Vander Have (2A).

Competition was extremely keen and the judge, Mr. Richardson (Kodak) found it hard to separate the winners. Mr. Richardson also comes to the school once a month to give talks and demonstrations.

The Committee, comprising T. Ethell (Pres.), M. Learmonth (Treas.), and R. Combe (Publicity Officer) wish to thank all contest entrants and club supporters for their assistance, and especially our Patron and the Headmaster for their interest.

— R. Combe, Fourth Year.

THE MATHS CLUB

Supported by Mr. Laird in conjunction with the office-bearers, this club, since its instigation in 1959, has given the boys a constructive insight into mathematics. The popularity of the club in 1962 is aptly shown by the attendance of the boys, which has noticeably increased during the year.

Interesting discussions have been compiled by John Hix, Andrew Warwick, Wayne Passlow, and Warren Christian. The discussions ranged from space ships to submarines, from early number systems to latest development of electronic number systems.

The office-bearers for 1962 are: President, John King; Vice-president, John Hix.

THE SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The social committee, which was formed in 1960, has continued this year with great success.

The first dance organised was for the Senior School and the committee thanks Tom Shepherd for compering it. Following the success of last year's "Record" dances, this dance was held without a band.

During Second Term another senior dance was held as well as two for the Junior School. It was noted with pleasure that although dances were frequent their popularity did not decrease.

During the Cavendish Road visit the committee organised a dance on the 20th August. It was a particularly successful night and all who attended thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The members of the committee thank Miss McKean, Mr. Morris, Mr. Foster, Mr. Gray, and all the boys who have attended the dances to play the records as well as others who have aided us. We hope that future committees will receive as much enjoyment as we have from helping the School in this manner.

COMMONWEALTH DAY

This year's Commonwealth Day Ceremony was held in the Assembly Hall on the morning of Thursday, May 24th. In the absence of the Captain, the meeting was chaired by the Vice Captain, John Robson. As in 1961, the finalists in the Annual Public Speaking Contest addressed the Assembly.

Before handing over to John Robson, however, Mr. Pound explained that the various speakers had been pondering the implications for the Commonwealth of Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market. It was premature, he suggested, for us to become either alarmist or defeatist. Every family had its differences of opinion and it remained to be seen whether Commonwealth Nations were prepared to endure temporary hardships in the interests of Britain's economic necessity.

John Foster of 1B, the First Year finalist, spoke on the importance of the Commonwealth Education Conference held at New Delhi in January this year. Then Andrew Bradfield of 2A outlined the main features of what he termed the "Old Empire" as distinct from the new Commonwealth of Nations. Australia's world responsibilities were then ably discussed by the Third Year Representative, Richard Coles of 3A.

Two senior finalists, Alan O'Reilly of 4A and Kevin Birkett of 5A, delivered interesting speeches in which they drew conclusions from the addresses that had gone before.

Alan, for example, took as his theme "The Commonwealth To-day," while Kevin spoke on "The Future of the Commonwealth." This voluntary association of free peoples had weathered many storms, much to the amazement of its enemies. Surely those enemies and selfish sectional interests within its own ranks would prove no match for its resilience and proved capacity for compromise.

The School Choir, under Mr. Reid's direction, provided a welcome musical relief to the rather serious programme and the proceedings concluded with the National Anthem. Mr. Foster later complimented the speakers on their high standards.

SCIENCE REPORT

The new course for first year classes has been an exciting change in the Science Curriculum. Students now receive an introduction to more of the many branches of Science and specialization in one or two branches begins in later years.

A Science Display at the Fete aroused keen interest among pupils, parents and friends. Of special interest were the comprehensive displays of apparatus and the demonstration experiments by students.

During April this year, the School acted as host to 120 members of the Science Teachers' Association of N.S.W. The meeting was addressed by members of the staff on a wide variety of topics and an excellent supper was served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The P. and C. Association has once again generously assisted our department and extra equipment already bought this year includes a direct vision screen, microscope lenses, expansion apparatus and duplication of material which enables greater participation in experimental work by the pupils.

During the year the Science Department has co-operated with Mrs. Wright, the Librarian, in setting and marking Projects. Through these, pupils have clearly shown a variety of talents illustrating in a special way their individuality and maturing research and work habits. The following boys are a few of those who showed both originality and good work habits to an exceptional degree: Alistair Copeland, Randall Milne, Harry Treloyn, Peter Tahmandjis, Robert Falkenmire, John Vander Have, Robert Prior, Eric Cooper, James Last and Peter Atherden.

The rapid growth of scientific knowledge and achievement in the last few years has made an understanding of Science essential to an understanding of our world. New courses and teaching methods are being introduced to keep pace with the challenge and opportunities presented by modern Science.

MANUAL ARTS REPORT

The Easter Show Display

During Easter, a group of boys from our school took part in an exhibition on the Education Stand at the Royal Easter Show demonstrating the crafts that are being taught in schools. The finished jobs were handed out to the public. Articles such as wall brackets, toy mice and copper dishes were made and distributed. The boys were delighted to be interviewed by Channel 7. They were also visited by the Deputy Minister for Education.

Among the boys taking part were Robert McArthur, Colin Burns, Danny Brett, Soloman Lebovic, Colin Mayfield and John Parry.

—Danny Brett, 3D.

Education Week

During Education Week a group of boys, from first, second and third year, represented James Cook High School at the Commonwealth Bank of Australia, Martin Place, Sydney. They were exhibiting their skill in Wood and Metal Work, making "Vikings", "Wrought Iron Ornaments" and "Serviette Rings" as house ornaments.

The Vikings were made and given to the bank manager, and the Wrought Iron and Serviette Rings were distributed to the spectators. The Viking's feet and head were turned on the metal work lathe. The heads were turned by John Parry and Eric Cooper. The bodies were turned on the wood work lathe by Gary Lewis, Soloman Lebovic, Gary Liesneer, Robert McArthur and Colin Burns. The Viking pieces were then assembled by Colin Mayfield, Terry Staples, Peter Bernays, Ross Kinny and then lacquered and allowed to dry. The boys on the wrought iron work were Eric Sydenham and Richard Sharp. These ornaments were painted by Danny Brett. The Serviette Rings were made by Peter Glasson, Robert Hewitt, John Foster, Ross Kirby and John Drinkwater. These articles were given to onlookers. The teaching staff in charge were Mr. Gray, Mr. Hardinge, Mr. Paterson and Mr. Street.

The bank, to show its appreciation, sent out for each boy three beautifully illustrated books on Gold, Famous Australians and the Royal Australian Navy.

"V.J." Project

To develop interest in the sport of sailing by providing a training vessel for any boy interested, the St. George Sailing Club, early this year, donated a sum of £50 so that pupils of our school could build a "V-J". The boys chosen for this task, all from Class 3D, were: Percy Lum, Colin McKinnon, Brian Hucker, Neville Frost, Dennis Sellars, Allan Hatte and Terry Wood. They have been working under the capable guidance of Mr. Gray after school on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

The first step in the construction was the drawing up and cutting of plywood frames, which were then glued together. These were then fixed securely into the large building frame, in which the craft would take its final shape. With the keel attached to the bottom, the big step of affixing the shell was commenced. This was done by gluing and nailing and thus the true design of the boat was finalised. It seems wrong somehow to describe so many hours of painstaking work in such a few words.

When completed, about the middle of third term, the boat will lie in the sheds of the Sailing Club. It is to be hoped that many boys from The James Cook High School will take advantage of its presence there. Its construction has certainly given much pleasure and satisfaction to the boys concerned in it.

—Allan Hatte, Terry Wood, 3D.

CAVENDISH ROAD REPORT

The Cavendish Road High School (Brisbane) this year sent down its First and Second Grade Rugby League teams to be hosted for a week by James Cook High.

The two teams arrived at Mascot at 9.15 a.m. on Saturday, 18th August. They played against James Cook at 11 o'clock, and Cavendish Road were victorious in both grades, defeating our first team 11-7 and our second team 11-3. In the afternoon the visitors, by courtesy of the St. George Leagues Club, were given free passes to the Rugby League "Match of the Day" between St. George and Western Suburbs.

Saturday night and Sunday were left free to allow the Brisbane boys to see Sydney at their leisure, but on Monday they were treated to a tour of Sydney's beaches. Unfortunately the westerly winds flattened the surf, but the weather was warm and at Manly Beach a lot of the boys went surfing. The Cavendish Road boys attended a dance on Monday night in the school hall.

On Tuesday they were treated to a sight they had never seen before—snow. The boys were taken by bus to the Blue Mountains which had their heaviest snow-fall for years. The temperature was in the low 30's and two boys were stranded at the bottom of the Scenic Railway for over an hour, as the operator forgot to go down and pick them up!

On Wednesday afternoon, the Cavendish Road first team played the combined St. George open team. The Brisbane team showed its strength by holding Saints to a 3-all draw. Four of our players played for St. George, and a composite 1st and 2nd Grade team beat Cavendish Road Seconds 9-3.

A luncheon was held on Thursday afternoon at which the Pennants for the best and fairest players were awarded. In First Grade the awards went to Jim Maguire (best back) and Al Voges (best forward), and in 2nd Grade to Darron Passlow and Gary Pampillonina. It was very reluctantly that the Cavendish Road League teams boarded their Electra aeroplane at Mascot on Thursday evening.

Members of the First and Second Grade Rugby League teams wish to express gratitude to Mr. Willis, Mr. Coutman and Mr. Lambert for organising the tour and entertaining the Brisbane teachers, to Mr. Croft and Mr. Barry for supervising on the bus tours, to the P. & C. Association for providing the luncheon, to the School Social Committee for arranging the dance, and to the St. George Rugby League Club for supplying the passes to the football.

—Len Chambers, 5th Year.

STAFF v. PUPILS CRICKET, 1961

For the second year in succession the staff proved themselves masters of the pupils when the annual encounter took place at Jubilee Oval on 6th December. The fact that a few of the school's best players were unable to obtain leave from their newly-acquired jobs had no influence at all on the outcome of the match! Neither did the umpires!

Batting first, the pupils managed to compile (in a rather laborious fashion) the measly total of 141 runs. They were greatly aided by dropped catches, slowness (certainly not due to age in a youthful staff team!) in the field, and a strange inability by the usually very reliable staff bowlers to bowl on the stumps, or even on some occasions on the wicket! Armstrong, Osgood, Chambers and Luland might be mentioned in a mediocre batting display. The all round strength of the staff bowling may be judged from the fact that no one bowler took more than a single wicket and yet the opposition was bundled out in no uncertain fashion.

Brilliant! Superb! Magnificent! Unbelievable! What words can I use to describe the batting of the staff? Really the issue was put beyond doubt by the openers, Mitchell and Willis, the latter scoring 50. Consolidated by later batsmen, their effort led to the astronomical total of 149 in comparison to the paltry score of 141 by the boys whose bowlers struggled bravely but in vain to stem the flow of runs which mounted like a tidal wave.

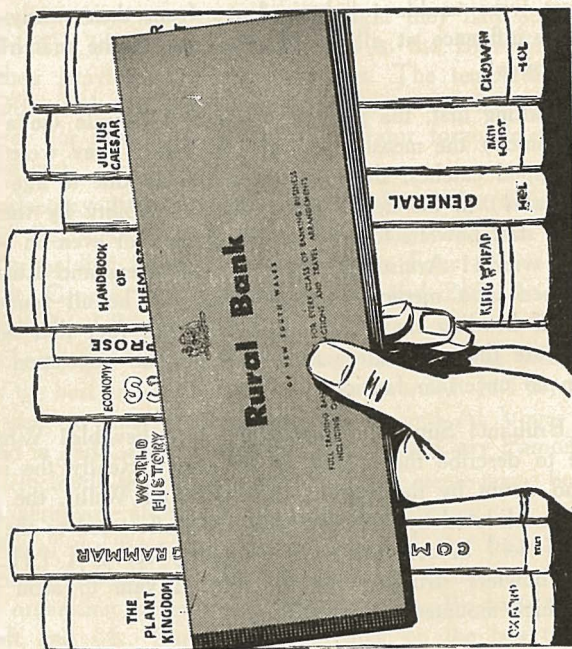

For brilliancy on the field of play, I might say for sheer cricketing genius, come and see the staff in action in this year's clash. Let's hope the pupils can make a bit of a game of it for a change.

— Well O'Really.

BANKS HOUSE REPORT

Banks House was named after the prominent botanist, Sir Joseph Banks, who journeyed with Captain Cook on his voyage to Australia.

Since its formation in 1958, Banks House has had a number of enthusiastic House Captains of whom Greg Miller is perhaps the most outstanding. Greg has now had the fortune to captain the St. George Third Grade Rugby League Team this season and has a great football career ahead of him. Another House Captain who comes to mind is Grant Blatchford who led the House to many victories during 1959.

One outstanding feature of Banks House is the manner in which it has been vigorously supported since its formation by our House Master, Mr. Willis. I am pleased to note that, in return, the House has brought many victories to Mr. Willis.

During the past five years, we have established an excellent sporting record. The House has won the School's Athletic Carnival each year. This is truly a fine achievement and one that gives much credit to the Banks' Athletes.

At the first meeting of 1962, the following captains were elected:

House Captain	Nick Combes
House Vice-Captain	Ross Longbottom
Athletic Captain	Jeff Carter
Tennis Captain	Les Dewhurst
Basketball Captain	David Towner
Rugby League Captain	Nick Combes
Soccer Captain	John Robertson

In 1962, Banks found itself in possession of a number of excellent athletes of whom the most outstanding were John Barton, David Towner, Les Harvey and John Heslop. On the Soccer field, Ross Longbottom, Ross Greenfield, Denis Richmond, Phillip Noble and John Robertson were prominent.

Another fine achievement stands to the credit of our House Soft-ball Team which has carried off the premiership honours for the last two years without suffering a single defeat. This is mainly because of the batting of Gerald Bolla, Jeff Carter and Nick Combes. Gerald Bolla must receive an extra mention for his magnificent fielding.

In conclusion, I can only hope that this wonderful record of achievement by Banks House will act as an incentive to future members. On behalf of the departing Third and Fifth Year members, I wish the House the best of success for the future.

— Nick Combes, Captain.

HICKS HOUSE REPORT

Hicks House, like the other three houses, has been named after a member of the crew of the "Endeavour". Hicks was the navigator of the vessel when Captain Cook discovered the east coast of Australia.

Ever since James Cook High began, Hicks House has provided many sportsmen in all spheres of school sport. The most prominent of these recently have been Doug Neil, Noel Rossbridge, Brian Bushnell and Paul Edwards. Doug Neil won the C.H.S. diving championship for four consecutive years and was runner-up in the fifth year. Doug also came third in the Australian Junior Diving Championship. This year, Paul Edwards and Noel Rossbridge established themselves as two of the best swimmers at James Cook. Brian Bushnell distinguished himself at the School Athletic Carnival and brought further honour by winning the under-16 years Long Jump at the C.H.S. Carnival.

The House Swimming Team has won the last four swimming carnivals. Soccer, too, provided Hicks with another victory when the season was completed with only one defeat being inflicted on our team.

The keynote of Hicks House successes has been teamwork. The most desirable element in a Hicks House boy is good sportsmanship in victory or defeat.

The captains of the various sports in 1962 are:

House Captain	Warren Goldsworthy
Vice-Captain	Len Chambers
Athletic Captain	Brian Bushnell
Soccer Captain	Ron Butterworth
Tennis Captain	Doug Ackland
Basketball Captain	Bill Benson
Cricket Captain	Ron Butterworth
Rugby League Captain	Len Chambers
Swimming Captain	Warren Goldsworthy

The staff of the Manual Arts Department has at all times been close at hand when advice or guidance was needed. We express our thanks to them all.

— Warren Goldsworthy, Captain.

SOLANDER HOUSE REPORT

The name of the house, Solander, was taken from the name of a member of the crew of the ship "Endeavour" when Captain James Cook discovered Australia. Dr. Daniel Carl Solander was engaged by Sir Joseph Banks as scientific assistant for the observation of the transit of Venus. Born in Sweden and educated under the famous botanist, Carolus Linnaeus, he rejected an offer of appointment to the University of St. Petersburg to take a post as librarian in London.

Solander House participated in the Swimming Carnival held at Thirroul in February and was successful in coming second to Hicks House.

Competing in the School Athletic Carnival, Solander recorded only enough points to place her third. This poor showing was caused by the lack of competitors in each age group, especially the 16 years and open.

The captains of each of the particular sports for the house were as follows:

House Captain	G. Stone
House Vice-Captain	D. Hoffman
Swimming Captain	J. Scascighini
Rugby League Captain	D. Hoffman
Cricket Captain	G. Stone
Tennis Captain	D. Ackland
Basketball Captain	W. Benson
Squash Captain	G. Stanger
Water Polo Captain	P. Cummings

With more enthusiasm from house members and more competitors, Solander should improve her position in the carnivals in future years.

— Graeme Stone, Captain.

TUPIA HOUSE REPORT

Tupia House has a special link with the James Cook High School. The School's namesake (Captain Cook) on his way to Australia acquired a native interpreter to converse with Australian natives. It is after this guide, "Tupia" that Tupia House is named.

In the past, Tupia has excelled in all forms of school sport. There have been many famous names who have been among the ranks of Tupia's top sportsmen. Among these were Joe Bush, first grade Rugby League player and accomplished athlete; Norm Brooks, a first grade (State representative) Rugby League player; Neville Hayes, world champion swimmer and successful athlete. # SPORTSMASTER'S REPORT

The year 1962 has shown a slight, but praiseworthy, revival of House spirit. Many boys entered in the main carnivals because they were rightly concerned that their House might need the entry points. These boys merit special congratulations. There are some events in the school carnivals for nearly every boy in the school.

A feature of the school performance in sport was the improvement of the athletes. If all selected athletes in the squad had trained and those finally selected had all taken their places in their events, the team would have had a better placing. Second and Third Division placings are just as important as First Division and no entry means no chance of points. Many times the results of the combined carnival showed no entry from our school. In many cases reserves were available and if your intention was not to compete you should have let someone know.

This year we were unable to arrange for the whole school to attend a combined carnival. Next year I promise to try and arrange for you to see one carnival at least, if for no other reason, than to help your school team with your cheers.

I would like to make an early request for 1963 to boys in Second and Fourth year especially. The school will require your attendance at two school carnivals and if you are in the school team you may be required for Zone and Combined Carnivals. Thus, if you are in both Athletic and Swimming teams, you would be absent from school work five days scattered throughout the year. My request is: Do not let your work at school get behind so that you feel you cannot afford this day, or that day, for the school.

Camendish Road High, Brisbane, was the only school to visit us this year. We are still endeavouring to arrange for a country school to exchange visits with us.

Finally, a word on training. If you are selected in a school team, attend every training session arranged by your coach. If you do this and take note of his instructions, regardless of the result of your games, you will have done all in your power to make a success of the game.

—J. Morris, Sportsmaster.

FIRST GRADE CRICKET

The team has played three matches this season. The first was a loss to Kogarah and the second a win over Port Hacking. In the first match, Kogarah scored 97 runs and James Cook, after suffering a brief collapse by the middle batsmen could only manage 81 runs.

The match against Port Hacking registered our first win for the season, Port Hacking scoring 87 runs and James Cook 95.

The match against Jannali was decisively won by James Cook, who accumulated 333 runs for the loss of 5 wickets (declared). Jannali, in response, could only register 119 runs and time prevented James Cook from obtaining the outright victory.

The team's chances of winning the premiership are favourable and if they are successful against Hurstville, they are certain finalists. Russel Luland has had luck with the ball and has returned creditable performances. Les Ritchie has batted consistently and in the match against Jannali scored a fine 122 not out.

The team would like to extend thanks to Mr. Mitchell for enthusiastic guidance throughout the season. —Graeme Stone.

SECOND GRADE CRICKET

Under the able captaincy of Paul Atkins, the Second Grade team has had a successful year.

The opening match against Kogarah saw our batsmen in brilliant form, scoring 4-187. Paul Atkins scored 43, Robert Anderson 53 and Tom Daley 48 not out. Our bowlers gave excellent support and Kogarah was dismissed for 31 and 34.

The Port Hacking team provided much tougher opposition, but good batting by N. Seabrook, A. Hicks and A. Werry saved the day for James Cook, who won on the first innings with 20 runs to spare.

Geoff Smith, Tom Daley and Paul Atkins have performed well with the ball. Some of the new players with good potential in our team are T. West, P. Hulme, J. Scascighini, B. Goldsborough and H. Duncanson.

Unfortunately, Tom Daley and Ken Howell have left school during the year and the team hopes that capable boys will be found to replace them. The members of the team and the coach, Mr. McDonald, look forward with enthusiasm and confidence to the remainder of the cricket season.

—N. Seabrook.

The team: P. Atkins (capt.), N. Seabrook, J. Scascighini, A. Werry, P. Hulme, A. Hicks, R. McKean, J. Dodd, B. Goldsborough, T. West, G. Smith, T. Ethell.

THIRD GRADE CRICKET

In the first half of the season, the team managed to have an outright win and a draw in the only two matches played.

The first match against Kogarah ended in a draw with Kogarah scoring 5 for 182 and James Cook 9 for 127 in reply. Very slow batting ruined James Cook's chances of winning. The other match against Port Hacking produced a very exciting finish. Our team scored the runs for the outright win in the last over. The scores were James Cook 113 and 4 for 96 defeated Port Hacking 90 and 4 (dec.) for 104. There have been some excellent batting performances from R. Riley, F. Timbrell, V. Farrow and R. Woellner. The team's best bowlers have been A. Hend, C. Kneale and V. Farrow. The team can look forward confidently to the second half of the season.

—R. Riley.

The team is: L. Calvert, D. Passlow, C. Windsor, V. Farrow, R. Riley (capt.), R. Woellner (vice-capt.), D. Gardner, F. Timbrell, A. Herd, P. Tonkes, B. Ireland, D. Toyer, C. Kneale, F. Treacey.

FOURTH GRADE CRICKET

The team began the season confidently as it was the premier side of the 1961 competition. The matches against Kogarah and Port Hacking were won by us, although the one against Port Hacking provided us with a little too much excitement. They scored 142 and James Cook was in a sound position (3-74) after a capable opening by Robert Jones (45). Then came a slump to 7-131, 8-131, 9-132. Could we win? Harry Grant was joined by George Foster and George batted lustily but carefully to score a match-winning 32.

During the competition competent batting by Dennis Thistlewaite, Paul Mansfield, Wayne Passlow and George Foster has helped the team considerably, and the batsmen have been supported by the bowlers and fieldsmen. Ian Blue has been consistently reliable in his fielding.

At present it seems that the team should reach the final. We would like to thank Mr. Little for his capable management.

—Neil Wales.

FIFTH GRADE CRICKET

The team began the competition with two excellent wins and there was some outstanding play by some members. Ross Flanders and John Miller made over a century in their opening partnership against Kogarah and this paved the way for a win by our team.

In the next game, against Port Hacking, John Sims and Neil Heap gave a splendid display of bowling. John took 8-37. Some brilliant catches were taken by Steven Harris, whose ground fielding was also an example to the rest of the team.

The coach, Mr. O'Brien, believes the team has an excellent chance of winning the competition.

The team is: I. Martyn (capt.), B. Buchanan, A. Bradfield, A. Croft, R. Flanders, S. Harris, N. Heap, J. Miller, G. Mooney, T. Nelson, J. Simms, L. Roger, M. Warland.

SIXTH GRADE CRICKET

The Sixth Grade team has developed into a premiership-winning side, and the coach, Mr. Perrin, and the boys hope they can secure this honour.

In the first round matches against Kogarah and Port Hacking, James Cook tried hard for outright wins, but on each occasion time went too quickly and we had to leave the ground content with first innings points. In the match with Kogarah, G. Morgan scored a fine 75, including 14 fours, and Larry Heap bowled accurately to take 4 for 18.

Though Port Hacking scored only 76 in the next match, James Cook were in difficulty at first because 3 wickets fell for 50. Then, however, Peter Boyd and Ken McNeilly made a long stand which won the match for us. McNeilly scored 66.

— G. Morgan.

The team: G. Morgan (capt.), G. Harris, K. Kolts, P. Boyd, G. Jones, P. Greiner, P. Levy, L. Heap, K. McNeilly, J. Duncombe, R. McArthur, W. Charlton.

FIRST GRADE RUGBY LEAGUE

The first grade team, although losing several players through injury and sickness, performed creditably throughout the season and was unlucky not to be placed higher in the competition. We were beaten by goals three times in games in which we looked the better side but could not kick enough goals. Four members of the team were picked in the St. George C.H.S. team. They were Len Chambers, Jim Maguire, Allan Voges and Mal Creswell. James Cook had more players in the team than any other team in the St. George district.

Gary Pampillonia, Mal Greswell and Al Voges deserve a special mention for their work in the forwards. Their determination in attack and defence was always outstanding. Mal consistently out-hooked his opponent, Gary often worried the defence with his vigorous running, and Al was always solid in defence. In the backline, the outstanding player was Jim Maguire who frequently split the defence and was prominent in all departments. Jeff Carter and Brian Bussell were also prominent in the backline. The team thanks Mr. Willis, the coach, for his fine efforts throughout the season. —Len Chambers.

SECOND GRADE RUGBY LEAGUE

Unlike last year the Second Grade League Team was not one of the strongest fielded in the St. George Zone, but, considering that a large number of the players was from the junior years, the team put on many fine performances.

After a very shaky beginning the team began to improve and by the conclusion of the first round, after several superb displays by centres, David Miles and Peter White, the team held the third position on the point-score table. However, in the first few matches in the second and final round we slowly dropped back. This, unfortunately, was not entirely the team's fault as several of the better players had been borrowed by First Grade to replace their injured.

With one match remaining we had a chance of making the final. There was only one difficulty with this: the team we were to defeat were leading the competition. We fielded our finest team of the season, and were narrowly defeated 5-3. The factors contributing mainly to the team's success were the hard, consistent tackling and attack put forward by thirteen triers.

Finally I must take this opportunity to thank our coach, Mr. Lambert, for the time he has spent coaching us and forever giving us great enthusiasm.

THIRD GRADE RUGBY LEAGUE

Though we were beaten 18-3 in the final, the team performed remarkably well and improved as the season went on.

Roy McKean, our five-eighth, who came into the side after a few games had been decided, played particularly well, and Dennis Bunker, Russell Peck, Dexter Choy, Alan Day and Graeme Stone were in good scoring form throughout the year.

Kogarah was our stumbling block throughout the season, but we certainly began well against them in the final, the score at half-time being 3-all. We should have been ahead at that stage, but for a few loose passes at vital times.

The forwards worked as a pack, and in this half, were superior to the Kogarah six. Notable players were John Hayward and Billy Foster, with Malcolm Brandon hooking well.

In the second half, the heavier Kogarah team, with good football, gradually got the upper hand, but our lads kept plugging away till the final bell.

Our thanks to Mr. Coutman, our coach, for his able assistance and for the valuable time he spent with us.

Fred. Osgood.

The team: F. Osgood, M. Brandon, B. Foster, J. Hayward, I. Tullock, D. Bunker, B. Colbourne, R. McKean, A. Day, G. Stone, D. Choy, R. Peck, J. Feeney, J. Miller, B. Brown.

FOURTH GRADE RUGBY LEAGUE

This season the team played very well considering that most of the boys played together for the first time.

Although beaten four times, twice by Hurstville and twice by Kogarah, the boys provided stiff opposition for other teams, Jannali and Port Hacking.

To single out any one in particular would be unfair, for all players did their best and we would especially thank Mr. Mason for his interest as coach.

FIFTH GRADE RUGBY LEAGUE

Monday afternoons' training sessions were attended by the majority of the players and the season provided them with keen competition and enjoyable football.

Although the "pigs" in certain positions lacked weight, with the help of Chris Watson's hooking they usually walked off the field with a high tally of successful scrums. Chris is also to be congratulated on his attack and solid defence. Moreover, the forwards are to be commended for the high spirit and enthusiasm with which they played.

Throughout the season the backline functioned with speed, agility and co-operation. At the base of the scrum, John Drinkwater fed the backs and made several nippy runs. Barry Ireland, playing in the five-eighth position, is also to be mentioned for his constructive break throughs which resulted in several fine tries by the flying wingers, Robert and Graham Jones. A special mention is given to Graham for his try-scoring ability and consistent goal kicking.

Although the team failed to achieve the premiership over Hurstville, it can be proud of the competition which it gave that team in the final at Jubilee Oval.

However, the most important reward of the season was the overall experience gained by all team members in competition football. It is to be expected that these players will make good use of this experience in future grade rugby.

Finally the team wishes to thank Mr. Skelsey for his diligent coaching.

—Bruce Hare.

SIXTH GRADE RUGBY LEAGUE

Our Sixth Grade team had a very good season and we were unlucky to miss playing in the final. Having started well, we lost a few important matches, and then finished one point behind Jannali, who played Kogarah in the final. All the boys of this team played in a most sportsman-like manner and were a credit to the school.

The boys of this team wish to thank Mr. Casey for the interest he took in us.

FIRST GRADE SOCCER

The First Grade Soccer team dominated the St. George Zone competition, being undefeated in all games. Results are as follows:

James Cook v Kogarah 5-0; 5-0.

James Cook v Hurstville 6-0; 12-0.

James Cook v Port Hacking 1-0; 3-1.

James Cook v Jannali 6-1; washed out.

Challenged by Port Hacking in the final, James Cook won 3-1, centre forward Garry Mawson netting a hat-trick. In eight games the team scored 41 goals and conceded 3.

A team consisting of First and Second Grade players entered the Tasman Cup Knockout Competition which was played outside of school hours. James Cook defeated Cronulla High 4-0 in the first round, but were narrowly defeated 2-1 in the second round by Drummoyne High.

Three boys from First Grade, R. Greenfield, G. Mawson and R. Podmore, were selected from boys competing from over eighty schools, for Sydney C.H.S. to play Newcastle and Illawarra districts.

On behalf of the First Grade team, I wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the enthusiasm, advice and emphasis on team spirit by our coach, Mr. Twigg.

—R. Podmore.

SECOND GRADE SOCCER

Although the Second Grade team was narrowly defeated in the finals three goals to two by Kogarah High, it played very well through the season and only suffered two defeats.

The forwards (C. Brown, L. Ritchie, D. Kitt, A. Duncan, J. Joseph and T. Aldrich) played and combined well to score many goals. Our defence was also good, with R. Pitt and R. Anderson outstanding.

We would like to thank Mr. Mackenzie for his enthusiasm and advice during the season.

THIRD GRADE SOCCER

The team had an outstanding season, winning every match comfortably. In the final, we defeated Jannali High by five goals to one.

Both individually and as a team the side played well. Edwards and Passlow shared the goal-keeping and had an easy season. The fullbacks were always sound and the half-backs were able to develop an attacking game with considerable success. Ackerman, in particular, caught the eye here. The opportunism of the inside trio, combined with the strong running of the winger and the powerful shooting of Mansfield, proved too much for opposition defences.

Wood, the captain, was always a steadying influence and led the team well.

FOURTH GRADE SOCCER

The Fourth Grade Soccer team had a very successful season as it dropped only one point in the eight competition games and won the final against Jannali by 3 goals to 1. Two members of the team also had the honour of being selected in the Sydney representative team. They were G. Siu and Howard Choy.

All members of the team and the reserves gave of their best at all times and were always on the attack, as is clearly shown in the point score for the season: 31 goals for and 2 against. The only complaint has come from the goal-keeper, M. Hornby, who so often had so little to do. However, when called upon, he played a sound game in defence.

The leading scorers for the team were: G. Siu 7 goals, H. Choy

AUSTRALIAN RULES

James Cook failed to win the First Grade Australian Rules Premiership this season. In 1960 and 1961 the school had been premiers of the Zone.

The team showed promise at the start of the season, but in the end were beaten by better teams. Though only three players had had previous experience, several new players showed good potential. John Kinny, in particular, proved useful in open play as well as winning his share of the ball against more experienced ruckmen throughout the season. Ken Wilcock played good football all the season and some more experience and a little self-discipline should make him a player to watch.

We had sufficient players this year to warrant the inclusion of a team in the Second Grade competition. This team was comprised mainly of First Year boys, none of whom had played football before. If they stay together they should mould into a premiership combination of the future.

The team would like to extend sincere thanks to Mr. Aitken for his patient guidance throughout the season.

—G. Scascighini.

SWIMMING

Heats for the school carnival were again contested at Thirroul Olympic Pool in February this year, in a carnival atmosphere. The finals were then held at North Sydney Olympic Pool on 1st March. The programme provided some exciting races for the many parents who attended. House Shield honours were retained by Hicks House for the third successive year. The following boys were most successful.

Open champion, Warren Goldsworthy; 16 years, Noel Rossbridge; 15, Norman Stibbard; 14, Paul Edwards; 13, Mark Tippet; 12, Ian Pritchard; open diving, Doug. Neil; junior diving, Alan Voges.

The St. George Zone Carnival was held at Canterbury later in March and James Cook had the great honour of once again winning the Zone Shield. Noel Rossbridge, Paul Edwards and Barry Eager scored impressive wins. These boys represented the Zone at the Combined High Schools' finals and Paul Edwards there won the 55 yards under 14 Butterfly final.

I would like to thank all the swimming team for their co-operation at carnivals and I wish them well in future years. Also, my thanks go to Mr. Morris for his help through the year.

The Water Polo teams have performed well this year and at the beginning of the second round in September, First, Second and Third Grade were competition leaders. First Grade is hopeful of winning the premiership for the third successive time. This year the Golf team has been successful and, as in previous years, the team has brought much honour to the School. Although the team lost its position as the leading golf school of N.S.W., it may be credited as being in the first three.

The main school competition in golf is in the summer Wednesday play, and at this stage, James Cook has played well to be in the lead undefeated. The success of this team has depended not on one boy, but on the team of seven—(1) Colin Lynch, (2) J. Barton, (3) T. Howe, (4) J. Hatchett, (5) C. Brown, (6) J. Joseph, (7) J. Coxon. Reserve, B. Revell.

In outside competitions, the School was well represented. In the N.S.W. Schoolboys' Tournament, a team consisting of (1) C. Lynch, (2) K. McPhee, (3) J. Barton, (4) T. Howe, were runners-up to a strong side from Normanhurst B.H.S. Our boys lost by 3 strokes. In the P.S.A.A.A. (C.H.S.) championship a team of five were runners-up to Randwick High after a closely fought game.

The school's team was narrowly defeated by Newington College in the Metropolitan Schoolboys' Championship. Two of the five matches were decided at the 20th hole.

For the fourth year in succession James Cook boys won the team's championship in the Blue Mountains championship. Our team, (1) C. Lynch, (2) K. McPhee, (3) J. Barton, achieved this by defeating Narrabeen High by four strokes. —Colin Lynch.

GRADE TENNIS

The Winter tennis teams performed well this season and Third Grade had the distinction of winning the premiership. This team went through the competition undefeated and won the final against Kogarah High. The boys concerned were: Colin McKinnon, John Foulds, Bruce Hart, Trevor Longfield, Robert Rose and Michael Neilson. The First and Second Grades had an enjoyable season, too. Alan Hicks can be singled out for commendation for his play on the net in all matches. We would like to thank our coach, Mr. Gray, for his help and enthusiasm.

—K. Duncanson, C. McKinnon.

The four Summer tennis teams have reached a higher standard than other teams in recent years. As a result, the Thirds are clear leaders of their grade, while the other three teams should each reach their respective finals. This satisfactory position has been assisted by the leadership of the four captains: Les Dewhurst (First Grade), Kevin Faust (Second Grade), John Stack (Third Grade), and Bob Williams (Fourth Grade). However, all team members have played with skill and determination and the successes of the year are due to the presence of both these qualities.

Back Row: B. Wong, R. Wood, P. Levy, D. South, T. Wood, R. Laurence, J. Newman, Mr. J. Gray, R. Hibberd, N. Seabrook, T. Cook, J. Goulder, T. Edwards, A. Hicks.
Front Row: J. Baker, S. McDonald, G. Foster, K. Duncanson, C. McKinnon, K. Smith, B. Dart, K. Fell, M. Neilson, S. Sell.

FIRST GRADE HOCKEY

For the third successive season the First Grade Hockey team won the premiership undefeated. The greater experience of the James Cook boys, six of whom represent St. George on Saturdays, told against our opposition. The final against Kogarah was won by 14 goals to nil.

The side functioned as a team in all games. The forwards combined well, while the halves and backs played consistently throughout the year. R. Bollard and C. Windsor can be mentioned as our best players. The backs, D. Durant and R. Steele, were the most improved players.

Several of the team members were selected in the St. George C.H.S. side. They were C. Windsor, R. McLeish, R. Riley, G. Smith and P. Watters. As a further achievement, C. Windsor, R. Riley and P. Watters were chosen for the Sydney C.H.S. team.

—Peter Watters.

FIRST GRADE HOCKEY

Back Row: V. Farrow, R. Steele, D. Durant, S. Wallis, R. McLeish, J. Kasin, I. Martyn.

Front Row: G. Smith, R. Riley, Mr. R. Beddis, Mr. J. Brook, R. Bollard, C. Windsor.

SECOND GRADE HOCKEY

Though the team was unsuccessful in winning the competition, the boys had an enjoyable season and would like to thank their coach, Mr. Beddis, for his help and encouragement.

The side defeated Hurstville twice (11 goals to nil, and 7-nil), but lost to Kogarah 4-1. In the game against Jannali, Robert Bennett scored three goals and Stuart Kinsela gave an excellent display as fullback. One of the outstanding players of the season was Colin Armstrong, who gave tireless displays as a defender.

—Ian Martyn.

The team: I. Martyn (capt.), R. Bennett, R. Trevitt, K. Millar, K. McNeilly, C. Armstrong, J. Fox, S. Kinsela, B. Buchanan, C. Livingstone, H. Van der Have.

BASKETBALL

In the first half of the summer season the Basketball teams won moderate success. The Second and Fourth Grade teams both enter the final rounds lying second in their competitions and are hopeful that they will improve their positions. The First and Third Grades, while having less success, have enjoyed many very close games and are anxious to reverse some of these narrow losses in the second round matches. The members of the Basketball squad are:—

Second Grade: B. Farrin (capt.), J. Barton, G. Forrester, J. Goulder, R. Hilton, J. Kinny, P. Lum, R. McCaskill, K. McPhee, K. Smith, D. Towner.

Third Grade: D. Robson (capt.), R. Allen, D. Bunker, J. Cullen, P. Mead, G. Pearse, G. Peters.

Fourth Grade: P. Collins (capt.), C. Armstrong, H. Choy, R. Coles, T. Brightman, G. Hardy, E. Louie, W. Ross, G. Sui.

FIRST GRADE SQUASH

This is the first year our first grade team has reached the final. This was only achieved by the way in which each player played to win. Usually, well planned strokes were used to great advantage. In fact, on occasions there were only a few points lost in the over-all match.

In the season's second round, Gary Stanger had to miss some matches because of a deep cut on the eyebrow needing six stitches. Bob Warren also missed some matches due to a serious bout of the flu. Robert Erskine and Graham Giles both took their turn to act as reserve by coming from second grade. The team sincerely wishes to thank them, as well as Mr. Street, who was always ready to help as coach.

The final was played against Kogarah. Kogarah's team only had one change from that of last year's premiership team. In this match each player fought to capacity with the aim to win. The scores in the final were: Doug. Ackland 0-9, 0-9; Alan Werry 3-9, 4-9; Bob Warren 4-9; 4-9; and Gary Stanger 10-9, 9-7. Victory went to Kogarah by 6 games, 70 points to James Cook's 2 games, 34 points. Though our scores appear to be poor, the games were played with comparative evenness.

And so, full congratulations should go to this team which has brought much credit to its school wherever it played.

—Alan Werry.

"B" GRADE SQUASH

As with last year's "B" Grade, the team played the two rounds undefeated. In fact no player lost a match in the two rounds.

For the finals, Tom Shepherd was absent, sick. While playing in the final, Graham Giles had an accident which caused him to forfeit his match, and also put him out of action for the challenge final since the cartilage had to be removed from his knee.

Philip Hulme completed the team for both the final and challenge final. Unluckily we were defeated in both these crucial matches.

—R. Erskine.

"A" GRADE BASEBALL

This year's Baseball team was ably led by Tom Perkins. Tom did a good job in getting the team through the competition undefeated. Most of the team had never played baseball before, but they combined beautifully to take out the comp.

Jerry Bolla would be one of the most improved players, as his batting improved so much after the first two matches. Dennis Ralph performed well at short stop and also as catcher.

"B" GRADE BASEBALL

Starting as a makeshift House team, the Second Grade Baseball team has played very good baseball to emerge as minor premiers and later to take the premiership honours for 1962.

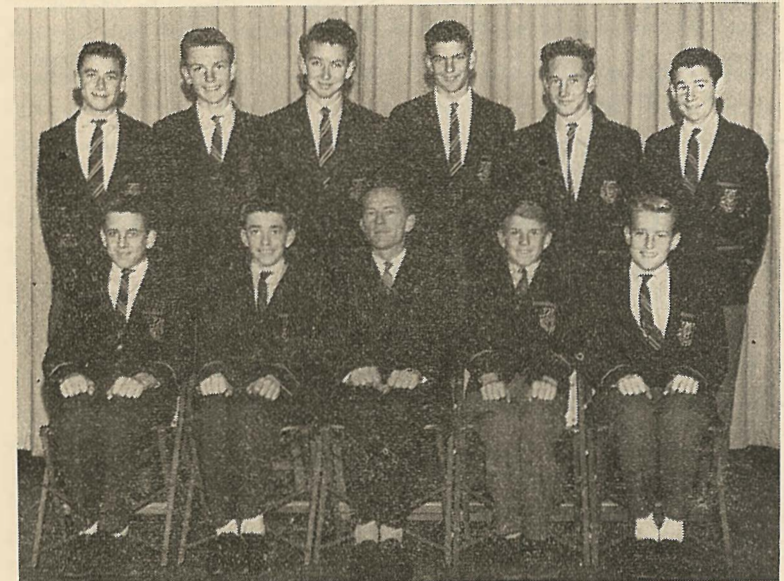

During the season we only suffered one defeat, being beaten by Jannali 11-8.

In the final we had to play Kogarah and beat them 17-6 with three injured.

A special mention should go to Len Hord, the pitcher, for his splendid playing throughout the season. As well, of course, all credit goes to the team for their fine spirit throughout the season. We should also like to thank Mr. Reid for his patience and concern and Mr. Hegarty for starting us off on the right track and lending us practice equipment.

ATHLETICS

This year, our school took part in the Fourth St. George Zone Athletic Carnival. The selection of boys for this carnival was determined on the performances at the School's carnival held on the 8th June. These boys were trained by Mr. Morris and Mr. Twigg every Monday and Thursday mornings at about 8 a.m. Mr. Morris was in charge of the sprinters, and Mr. Twigg was in charge of the distance runners. The attendance at these training sessions was usually in the vicinity of forty, mainly composed of junior boys. After several training sessions, Mr. Morris had to have an operation. This resulted in the combination of the two groups for training with Mr. Twigg.

The boys of the Athletic team wish to thank Mr. Morris for his time, Mr. Mason, who helped in the arrangements prior to the Zone Carnival, and especially Mr. Twigg, who gave so much time in preparing the team for competition.

The Zone Carnival was originally set down for August 9, but had to be cancelled due to heavy rain. When the carnival was held on August 22nd, many would have preferred the previous date by comparison! The boys, competing in temperatures just above forty degrees, with driving winds and frequent drizzle, brought much honour to their school. Out of the nine competing schools James Cook came third, with Hurstville first and Kogarah Second. As a result of this carnival, several boys attained places in the Zone team which competes in the C.H.S. Carnival. Those boys are: A. Werry, B. Bussell 5th; B. Bushnell 4D; R. Williams 3A; G. Roll 3B; L. Ritchie 3F; R. Hespe 3F; J. Heslop 2B; G. Morgan 2C; L. Andrew 1A; P. Glasson, H. Van der Have 1B; and P. Laycock 1E.

The Saturday prior to the C.H.S. Carnival, another St. George Athletic Carnival was held as a last minute try-out before the C.H.S. At this carnival ten boys (John Heslop, Bruce Kerr, Stephen Clark, John Harris, George Harris, Graham Kellitt, Robert Williams, Geof. Morgan, Brian Bushnell and Alan Werry) appeared to represent the school. From these boys, eight first places and many second and third places, were secured, a truly outstanding display from such a small team. As a result, the school came third overall at the carnival. Our congratulations go to them all.

SEAGULLS

A sheet of white like blinding light;
Tis the seagulls in their flight.
O'er the raging sea they fly,
Their destination know not I.

Now and then one breaks away,
Towards the sea to catch its prey;
Well directed in its flight,
Soaring down with all its might.

Plunk! it hits the water proud,
Then up it flies toward the cloud,
To join again the squawking flight;
The members of the sheet of white.

Peter Barnes, 2A.

WHO AM I?

To my right, a weird mixture of greys, yellows, blacks and greens snarled and coughed, as a long line of cars pushed their way along the congested, twisting street. On the other side, a sea of faces blended into a confusion of hats, cases and newspapers. Some faces were smiling, while others appeared to be longing to reach the sanctuary of home.

Further up the street, a group of roughly-dressed men lounged on the railing of a crowded hotel, half-empty glasses in their hands, and a heavy blue cloud of smoke rising from the smouldering cigarettes tucked limply in the corners of their mouths.

A constant noise came from each point of the compass. Car horns, rumbling buses, the occasional back-firing of a truck and the alarming cries made by a small boy as he sat on an over-turned fruit box selling the evening papers.

I lifted my foot as a small fat lady with sunglasses prodded me with the point of her umbrella. A small freckled boy plastered his toffee apple on my coat.

However, I remained still, intent on my purpose. Then a light tap on my shoulder instructed me to walk a few paces around the corner, whence I took up position again. Such is a day in the life of a police horse on traffic duty.

16 Station Street, Kogarah*58-5204*THE SCHOOL BUS

To most people the idea of getting onto a bus and taking a ride home, is one of the most tedious trips a person is forced to undergo. Not to a school boy, however. To him a bus ride symbolises a sense of freedom, a "get away from it all" feeling that enables him to face to-morrow's strenuous teaching with fortitude. Even more so on Friday afternoon because the bus ride begins two glorious days free from school.

He was watching the clock intently that Friday afternoon. Eighth period had dragged on so monotonously that it seemed to take eight periods to finish. Then came the familiar sound of the final bell. On arriving at the bus stop he was staggered at the enormous number of boys who had beaten him to the queue, but with a crafty sidestep he managed to sneak in among the leaders of the line.

The bus soon arrived and to his dismay it pulled up at the back of the queue. The next moment found him fighting for his life among the crowd that had formed at the entrance of the back door of the bus. He made a courageous lunge for the steel bar in the centre of the platform. Fate, however, was against him. He missed with his hand and the bar struck his head. Bruised and beaten, his strength all ebbing from him, he sank like a wet sandbag to the dusty roadside below.

After the dust had cleared, he picked himself up from the gutter, dragged his aching body up the endless flight of stairs and slumped in a heap on the floor. As the bus engine started, an insane scream was heard above the commotion of the boys.

They spun round and saw him sitting in the middle of the floor. His eyes were sunken in and black, a small drop of blood oozed from the side of his twisted mouth, his face was dusty and hot, and his clothes were damaged by the battle that had raged below.

The look of horror that gradually spread over his face was accompanied by the dawning realization that he was on the wrong bus.

—K. Faust, 4E.

" ROCK "

From the small village hall comes the rollicking sound,
Of the teenager's feet all pounding the ground;
Of the beat of the brass and the crash of the drums,
Of the rock-and-roll singer who raves as he strums.

The wail of the sax does loudly continue
To light the fuse of the wildness that's in you;
The din doesn't stop 'till its way past eleven—
For all true cats, it's a real seventh heaven.

CHILD'S PLAY

It was a normal day in the life of Gordon Fisher. It was raining outside and as it was his day off he decided to go back to bed. Just as he settled down again the doorbell rang. Getting up he put on his dressing gown and answered the door. On opening it he saw an intriguing looking parcel sitting on the doorstep.

He brought it in and on it found a peculiar legend, "Merry Christmas, 2062". "A joke", he said to himself, "Not likely. Why would anyone take the trouble to send this anyway, it's mid-July?" He struggled, trying to get the parcel open. After several failures he turned away in disgust crying, "If you don't open, you won't open." As quick as a wink the parcel creaked open.

The interior was a crazy mass of shelves on which rested vials filled with blue, red and many other coloured chemicals which Gordon couldn't identify. On the bottom along with a great mass of valves and wires which some lunatic scientist must have dreamed up, was a leaflet. He picked it up and examined it.

[Build-a-Man Set: This is intended for the use of children between the ages of seven and ten. Contents: Chapter I, Small humans; Chapter II, What you need to build a man; Chapter III, Completing the man; Chapter IV, Disassembling him.]

Gordon dropped the book and flopped onto the bed, gasping for breath. Could this be true? But his curiosity got the better of him. He read the instructions and decided that after lunch he would start.

After lunch he got out the equipment and set to work following the instructions carefully. He thought it would be better to twin himself first as he had no other model to copy.

In a couple of hours the finished product was lying on the bench. He dressed his duplicate, brought it over to the vitalizer, and turned it on . . . .

Suddenly his twin sprang up and began to fight with Gordon. A sudden knock at the door brought both to a halt. A weird man walked in and explained that he had left the package by mistake. Then, mistaking who was the original and who was the duplicate, started to disassemble Gordon Fisher.

"But listennnnnnn . . . ." began Fisher in a yell that turned into a high tension scream which died into a liquid mumble.

"It would be better for your sanity if you didn't watch", the visitor suggested.

The duplicate exhaled slowly, turned away and began to button his shirt. Behind him the mumbling continued.

THE CLOUDS THAT ROAM THE SKY

I sit alone on the sea shore,
And watch the storm clouds rolling by:
Figures, faces, and people of other races,
Are forming in the sky.

I hear the faces growling,
I see the figures flashing:
And O! what a loud noise
To hear them altogether crashing.

Then I feel the raindrops
Beating on my face:
Quick! run for the shelter,
Or the storm will win the race. —Charles Schofield, 1E.

THE PASSING OF TIME

Professor Richards eyed with pride the symbol of his life-long ambition, a time machine. Fifty-five years before, while still a science student at University, he was watching the birthday parade of the then Crown Prince with his fiancée. Suddenly from the other side of the street a pistol shot rang out, missing the prince, but hitting his fiancée. She was killed instantly, and the assassin disappeared into the crowd.

From that moment on Richards vowed to come back in time and prevent the would-be assassin from shooting his fiancée. He could then live his life over again with her.

Once transported back to the correct day he went into a cafe to await the coming of the parade. While sitting at a table he saw his fiancée amble in with another student. Upon eyeing the other student carefully, he realized that it was himself who was entering the cafe on that fateful morning. Soon it was only ten minutes before the Crown Prince was scheduled to pass by. The couple got up and walked out. Richards followed them and when they took up their position, he went across the street to where he was sure the pistol shot had come from, and waited for anyone looking suspicious.

A few tense minutes passed before the Prince came along in his coach. Almost immediately, the man next to Richards put his hand into a suspicious looking black bag. At once Richards drew out a pistol and aimed it at the man. He was just about to squeeze the trigger when in the confusion of the surging crowd his arm was knocked and he accidentally fired the gun. The bullet flew across the street and killed his fiancée.

Realizing what had happened he disappeared into the crowd, horrified by the knowledge that what has already happened cannot be influenced by man's action some time in the future.

OUR NEIGHBOUR

Finding myself in a state of impecunious despair, with many financial commitments impending, I thought I should remedy the situation by succumbing to the scourge of idle layabouts such as myself—work.

I discovered that the only available opportunities for toil were car-washing or gardening (both tasks which I abhor). However, I resolved to resolve my difficulties by mathematical and scientific methods.

The coin landed heads, so I set about washing the car. Fortunately my father was out or I would have been forbidden. He would have recalled my most recent attempt, which resulted in saturated upholstery and rather a large amount of water in the sump.

I resolved that I would fall into none of the pitfalls associated with my chosen vocation, and when my father returned he would be joyously uplifted at the sight of his gleaming car. Then with kindred spirit, he would reward me handsomely for my time and effort.

With scrupulous care I manoeuvred the car into the lane beside the house. After rolling up all the windows and making certain that the bonnet was securely sealed, I turned on the hose and squirted the car. Then my attention was distracted by an obese pigeon perched on our neighbour's roof.

Taking careful aim with the hose, I fired. There was a loud scream, tending to the point of hysteria, and our neighbour burst violently from his gate, drenched to the skin and wearing his new suit. He looked at me fiercely, as if he would like to tear me asunder, and uttered a cry typical of that of a breathless mopeke.

Usually a ruddy-faced jocular man, now a moist mass of fury, water streaming down his purple face, he began to shout like a psychoneurotic wombat.

His facial contortions and general appearance broke down my resistance and I exploded into hyena-like laughter. Hastily recovering, I explained that my laughter was merely induced by nervousness.

Seeing my apology went unnoticed, I offered to make amends for my misdeeds by cleaning his suit. Seizing a rag, I began to rub his lapels dry. Then I realized that I had seized an oily rag and was in effect dyeing the suit black. Snatching up the hose, I began to wash the coat clean. It was then that I perceived the hose had somehow entangled itself around his foot and that my jerky motion had upended him into the bucket of water I was using. He was now sitting in the water, a cadaverous expression on his face.

Some strange prognostication, I think it was the look on his face, prompted me to flee for my life. Our neighbour gave chase, his heart filled with anger. Looking back now I don't think my action was at all cowardly, discretion being the better part of valour.

My entry into the sanctuary of my house was hurried, and drew many questions from my family. After sending our large dog out into the yard to ward off all intruders, I explained nonchalantly that I often run up the steps into the house for exercise. A noise raged around the house for some time, and at present I start my journey for school by jumping the back fence. I must make some enquiries about the furniture van I saw back into the kerb of our neighbour's house yesterday. Perhaps he is going away on holidays.

—D. Lowther 3A.

SHAKESPEARE'S PLAYS

To some people, the thought of listening to, or even acting in one of Shakespeare's plays, is uninteresting. This idea is, to my mind, false. Both plays our class has studied this year have been extremely interesting.

At first, I was not so keen on Shakespeare, but now I follow it quite keenly. The first play we read was "Julius Caesar." It is a stirring play, which is easily understood.

The scene which particularly appealed to me was the "Death of Caesar". It depicts the brutal slaying of the Roman conqueror, Caesar.

After we had finished this play we progressed to another, "The Merchant of Venice". This play appealed to me straight away and I could picture the "Queen City of the Adriatic", a bustling busy seaport and its foreign vessels laden with rich cargoes. The most exciting moment in this play is "The Trial of Antonio". The tension and suspense keep building up, keeping you wondering whether Antonio will forfeit his pound of flesh. The scene was one in which I eagerly followed every word until the disguised Portia sent the Jewish prosecutor staggering from the court.

Both of these plays make extremely interesting reading and I urge those who have not yet had the pleasure of reading them to do so.

A BOY BY ANY OTHER NAME

A teacher's job is full of care,
And often makes him tear his hair,
Small wonder that his calmness slips,
And nasty names creep past his lips.

Now a "pig" I could be, and "wretched" too,
But here is a problem I'll put to you:
How can a boy, so angelic and clean,
Be compared to an animal so dirty and mean?

I look in a mirror and mutter, "Oh, rot!"
A "beady-eyed dingo" I am not.

SCHOOL DAYS

Each day at nine we march into school,
With lessons to do and not to play the fool,
Eight periods of forty minutes each,
With the master out front trying to teach.

But Wednesday's the day that we all like,
For it's down to sport on the faithful old bike,
With tennis and cricket or soccer to play,
It's fun from the start to the end of the day.

Now lesson's are serious, and sport's just for fun,
But when three-twenty comes we're home on the run;
With lessons forgot, like a ball from a tee,
Homewards we fly to watch T.V.

THE JOYS OF HIKING

This is written to advise inexperienced bush walkers how to enjoy themselves when planning a pleasant country hike. After the details of when and where have been taken care of, you anxiously await the big day.

When it finally does arrive; you crawl from between the sheets about 5 a.m., have breakfast, get dressed and leave by six. After meeting your friends you catch a train to a prearranged destination and show everybody on the train your ten inch sheath knife, new compass, map and first-aid kit. It is not long before you reach the starting point of your hike, hoist your fifteen pound haversack on your back and "forward ho!"

You have only gone about half a mile when you trip over a dead log and skin elbows and knees. At least this provides you with the opportunity of using your brand new first-aid kit, and you haul it out painfully but proudly.

After three or four hours of falling over stones, scratching your hands, climbing under and over rocks and cliffs, getting lashed in the face by rebounding branches and walking in puddles of mud, your party decides to stop a while for lunch. You drop your haversack, which now seems to weigh about one hundred pounds or more.

As there is no dry wood to be found, you try to cook your food over a damp, smoky fire. In half an hour or so you give up in disgust and eat your half-cooked sausages and drink your cold tea. After lunch, you stick band-aids on your blistered feet, apply liniment to your insect bites and move on.

It is now three o'clock and you find some initials in a tree remarkably similar to the ones you carved over an hour ago. Then, some one realises you are lost and walking round in circles, and your whole party starts to joke about staying on top of the mountain all night. You find their statements not the least bit humorous. After one of the Tarzans of the party climbs a tree, you find yourself about one hundred yards from a main highway. Struggling down to the roadway, you "thumb" a ride to the nearest railway station and catch a train that gets you home in time for the evening meal.

You walk in the front gate so sick of the sight of trees that you feel like pulling up every bush and shrub in the front garden. After telling mum and dad about the day's adventures, exaggerating the size of every hill and insect about ten times, you have supper and flop into bed completely exhausted after a wonderful outing.

—Col O'Neill, 4E.

THE ASTRONAUT

O, I have left this earth of ours
And circled high and wide,
Around the earth's great stratosphere,
A cloud its surface hides.
I once did dream of travelling,
And now my chance has come;
I wish I could return to earth,
My duty I have done.

—G. Rockstro, 4E.

A PROUD AUSTRALIAN

I am very proud of the fact that one of my ancestors, John Smith, was one of the first free settlers to come to Australia. He was sponsored by the Duke of Portland, and came to Australia in the sailing ship "Barwell", which arrived in Sydney in 1798. The ship also carried convicts. Robert Smith, a son of John Smith, worked for the Rev. Marsden for six months, and received only £7/10/- for his work. Later he was speared by the blacks while exploring between the Lachlan and Darling Rivers in 1856. The spearhead is still in the possession of an uncle of mine.

Another ancestor, Thomas Arkell, arrived in Sydney in the ship "Experiment" in 1804. He received one of the first land grants at The Green Hills, now known as Richmond. Governor Macquarie later gave him an additional grant at Camden.

In 1829 the new parish "Arkell" in the country of Bathurst was named. It is the only one to bear the name of a district pioneer. The Arkell Range, traversing the Mulgunnia and Copperbannia areas, is named after him.

The "Ribbon Boys", a bushranging gang, held up Arkell's homestead and raided the premises, taking stores, arms and horses, and forcing some of the men to join them. Later they were caught, tried and sentenced to death. They were hanged.

John Smith's grandson, and Thomas Arkell's daughter married. I am their great, great, great grandson.

ATHLETIC TRAINING BEFORE SCHOOL

Dawn breaks over the frost caked sporting fields of the school. White figures move across the frozen wilderness. Suddenly the mist lifts and in front of us stands a solitary figure. "All right, boys! Twice more around the field — on the double!"

It is Mr. Twigg, our athletics coach, wearing three overcoats, two scarfs, two pairs of gloves, with hot water bottles fore and aft. The Maths. study radiator, with an extension, is beside him. If we could read his mind, Mr. Twigg would be thinking . . .

"What a morning for training! Morris has all the luck. I suppose he is lying on his back in a soft, warm bed, attended by pretty, young nurses."

Leaving Mr. Twigg and his reflections for the day, our attention focuses on boys gasping and falling to the hard earth in pain. We turn to look at the athletics' squad as it emerges from the swirling mist to collapse beside Mr. Twigg's radiator. First to collapse is Smith, and he is followed by Werry, Towner, Lynch, Warren and Duvall in quick succession. All wait fearfully for the next command of their leader and master.

"All right, you lazy loafers! Do twenty-five body presses in five minutes, and if anyone does not complete them, he will have the honour of escorting himself around the field again!"

This speech of encouragement renews the boys' strength and vigour, and they set out grimly to carry out the command.

At five to nine, from the haunting mist seven blue figures slowly make their way from the field, from the torture of their benevolent, kindly athletic coach.

THE OLD SAILING SHIP

She lay in the bay, the old sailing ship,
Her salty sea-days ended.

She lay in the bay, aged in the grip
Of Eternal Time's hand extended.

She once was a fine and shapely craft,
One that sailed the seven seas wide.

But now she's a relic with rotting mast,
A hulk mud and barnacles hide.

—Doug. Ackland, 4A.

WHAT MEN WERE THESE

The gale lashed out with all its fury,
And tore the sea asunder;
Along the water's edge it sped,
And churned the sand down under.

But,
What quickly comes, must quickly go,
And so the winds subsided:
The tempest left for greener fields,
Alone, and undecided.

Left here and there along the sands,
By the sea, the wind its master;
Tales of adventures brave and bold:
A tattered sail; a broken mast,
— Disaster.

What men were these,
To risk their lives afloat?
— To dare to tempt the elements,
In but a flimsy boat?

Brave men! Men with courage!
Men with hopes and fears:
Men — human, all of them;
They knew love, — and tears.

All is quiet;
The storm of life has gone:
The sea is still; the sky is clear —
Peace —

Brave men, sleep on.

—Harold Petterson, 5A.

THE JOYS OF COOKING

Firstly, a survey must be made of the refrigerator to plan your meal. After a few minutes a meal consisting of one lamb chop, fried chips, fried tomatoes and fried eggs is decided upon.

As the chips take the longest to cook, they must be put in first. Make sure that at least eighty per cent. of the fat makes the utensil, which is then put on a high gas.

When the fat boils, quickly immerse the chips in it. Great interest is derived from watching the fat change from a bubbling solution to a foaming, rising effervescence, its momentum carrying it far above the top of the utensil.

Next comes the chop. Light the biggest gas jet, then throw a large hunk of fat and the chop into the pan.

Art and cunning are needed in order to ensure that the egg-yolk is not broken when cracking the eggs. After the delicate operation is over, notice the interesting way your dripping is being sodden by bleeding yolks. It tastes nearly as good.

Now as a finale to the meal come the tomatoes, which are cooked by heating an enamel plate to a dull red glow before the sliced tomato is dropped onto it. Instantly, a great white spume of billowing smoke shoots up, and, together with the smoke from the other sources, your kitchen is transformed into an army practice range. Your next duty is to scrape the mess onto a plate and grope blindly towards the table to consume it.

When the meal has been disposed of, the task of cleaning up must be attempted. Once this has been done, you are at leisure to sit down and think up arguments that will rebut the inevitable public criticism that is sure to follow.

Your parents will make caustic remarks about the amount of fat which made the tin, and the next door neighbour will ask you where the fire was.

The first meal you cook will always be remembered, not so much because of severe indigestion, but because you have proved that you can master the stove.

—Bob Ball, 4B.

SCHOOL SPORT

Of all the things I love to do,
My sport is very dear;
Soccer in the winter time,
Cricket when summer's here.

I sometimes play a game of squash,
Golf too, on holidays.
Team sport appeals to me the most,
It's best in many ways.

It seems to me that all should play
Some sport if they really can;
It builds a sporting spirit,
And this makes a better man.

Peter Greiner, 1A.

THE CONTEST

Nearing the end of the specified four hours, Big Bill was still well ahead of his two remaining opponents. His speed and endurance had amazed the large crowd of country folk who had gathered to see the annual contest.

Bill's lesser competitor, a young, thin country boy, with a crop of red hair, was by no means up to the standard of the other two competitors. Nevertheless, his determination had earned him the support of a large section of the crowd who, despite the high humidity, cheered him at the end of each round.

The other competitor, a short but otherwise huge man, was gradually turning green at the end of the forty-third round. He was not very popular, and when he fell to the floor behind a table, nobody took any notice of him.

Big Bill, the star of the day, was still going strong on his sixty-third round and looked like breaking the seventy mark for the first time since this event had started.

The young country boy had just given up on his fifty-fourth round when the bell rang to complete the competition. Big Bill had won again. This was no surprise to anyone because although Bill's history in Gluttonville has been a short one, it has been well-fed. He is the fastest pancake cooker and eater in the town; the champion watermelon eater; the champion milkshake drinker and chocolate eater, and last year won the National Eating Contest.

—Kevin Baggs, 4A.

THE SWAGMAN

A glance at the bright pink sky told him that there was about an hour of sunlight left. He spent five minutes gathering wood, and then having thrown his blankets onto the cold, hard earth, built the sticks up into a careful pile. A match flickered, and was expertly thrust into the centre of the twigs. Ten minutes later the enticing aroma of a pot of tea, and a steaming hot billy of stew, floated on the warm evening breeze.

Towards 8 o'clock he turned in. He didn't sleep, however, but lay on his back looking at the stars, and reminiscing. He thought of the "good old days", the Roaring Twenties, and what a good time it had been. He thought of all the ever so formal dinner parties he had attended when he was at the top of the social ladder. He thought of all the society belles he had taken out, and a furtive smile flashed over his weather-beaten face, as he thought of his present appearance, dirty, and unshaven. He rolled over and slept.

He rose at 5 in the morning, put out the fire and rolled up his swag. After eating a hurried meal, he set off while the dew still clung tenaciously to the sparse grass.

By mid-day he was still 12 miles from the water hole which was his objective. The sun beat mercilessly, cruelly, and his forehead was a lake of perspiration. His blue eyes blinked constantly, to ease the dazzling glare reflected from the sand.

The depression had hit his father hard, wrenching his fortune from him and eventually breaking his heart. The swagman had tried to find a job, and in desperation had joined the long ranks of people heading westward, away from their shattered lives and ruined homes. Most of these "temporary swagmen" had returned to the cities when the depression passed, but he had stayed on and developed an affinity to the bush. He knew the bush better than most people knew their own houses.

It was 5 in the evening before he finally reached the water-hole, and bathed himself in the luxuriously cool, clear water. He dressed himself, lit a cigarette and relaxed. Then he got up, walked across the small clearing and sat down on a large rock.

In the uncertain light he didn't see the snake . . .

Three days later two boundary riders called in at the water-hole. The first one shivered when he saw the body, already beginning to decompose. "Only a swaggie", he said to his mate as he approached closer. The second man detected a note of relief in his voice.

—R. Woelner, 3A.

THE SEASONS

'Tis Summer,

The air hangs hush'd and still,
And in the eve, the cricket's shrill
Portends the storm in western sky,
Where gath'ring clouds on hilltop lie;
The thunder roll and lightening play,
Proclaim the end of summer day.

'Tis Autumn,

And orange-tinted leaves
Drop gently down from rusting trees,
And in the fields the golden sheaves
Softly caressed by carefree breeze.
On distant hills the cattle graze
Looking towards the mellowing haze.

'Tis Winter,

The skies are clear and cold,
And forest trees stand stark and bold;
And on the snow-clad slope is seen
Myriad skiers in bliss serene,
Swooping down the valleys deep,
Where quaint, the village lies asleep.

'Tis Spring,

Green foliage cloaks the trees
And in the blossoms lurk the bees;
In the fields the daisies bloom
As shepherds pipe a happy tune;
And by the brook young people lie,
With eyes uplifted to the sky.

—N. Seabrook, 4A.

THE SEAMAN'S FRIEND

From the days when the Egyptians first ventured out over the waters of the Mediterranean, attempts have been made to warn sailors of hazards which might bring danger to their ships. For a long time the only warning signals which could be used were beacon fires lighted on dangerous coasts. An attempt was made to build a lighthouse on the coast of Asia Minor seven hundred years before Christ, but the first one with a definite record was built on the Island of Pharos, near Alexandria, somewhere about the year 300 B.C.

This light house was considered one of the seven wonders of the world and served as the model for hundreds of others which were built on headlands or rocky islands during the following two thousand years. No great improvement was made until the beginning of the nineteenth century.

The light shown in old towers was provided by wood or coal fires and did not carry any great distance. The modern lantern may use either oil, acetylene gas or electricity. An electric arc lamp was first tried out in England in 1868, and was a tremendous improvement on anything previously used, but even this has now been superseded in many cases by a high-power incandescent lamp, the million power candle-light of which can be seen twenty miles away.

But even the million candle power light is useless when a thick fog descends over the sea. On these occasions either sound rockets, fog guns, sirens or diaphones are used. Most lighthouses are now able to send wireless signals, which can give a ship a hundred miles away its exact position on the fog shrouded ocean.

—Raymond Stone, 3A.

NATURE INSCRUTABLE

The twilight fades; to screen what is, it seems:
A myriad points lighting the clear, night sky;
Mute witness to tranquil Beauty's realm.
And far beneath, the Moon, its awry gleams,
Transform a limpid lake, 'mid thirsty plains and dry,
Into a silver stage.

Nearby, a solitary silhouette with howl so shriek and weird,
Slinks through the flowing shadows: its luminous, evil eyes,
Searching for some frail, impotent prey to kill.
Beware! O helpless creature, of this murdering monster feared
By all. O why do you cleave such beauty with cries
Of wanton slaughter?

—Geoff. Smith, 4A.

TO BEAUTY

Oft have I wandered a tangled path—
Down rusty banks, past knotted gums;
O'er stagnant streams, where frogs
And insects strange, do swirl the slimy ooze—
To that secluded place,
Where Beauty sits in state.

Before her green-clad feet, an ochre carpet
Have red gums laid; the bellbird thrills
The Queen with sweet refrains;
And breezes whisper to the tree tops,
While blue-bells ring out anthems,
Praising you, sister of nature, and of joy divine.

But fiery Sun, your Consort,
Beckons in the west,
And you must now your greeny palace leave;
Bedecked in wiry ferns and frail blue bells—
As South Wind tears your carpet
And Spirits of the night
Rejoice, by wan moonlight. —Geoff. Forrester, 4A.

THE APPLE

The apple is the most tempting of fruits. Its beauty, taste and smell all combine to form an irresistible lure to mankind. It tempted Eve to steal, bringing about the perpetration of the first felony.

It has since tempted millions of boys to crawl through fences and hedges into orchards to steal the delectable fruit. Girls do not seem to steal as many apples as boys, possibly because they have not had the practice at throwing stones, jumping fences and climbing trees to bring the apples down. But, undoubtedly, history gives the gentler sex the honour, or dishonour, of stealing the first apple.

Since that time, millions of barrels of tears have been shed by boys who have been caught and subjected to caning, smacking, birching or some other equally detestable form of punishment. All this has been caused by exhibiting these delicious, tempting apples in areas accessible to easily bewitched children. —M. Ansell, 1A.

SOLITUDE

I hear a multitude of sound,
Whilst I am here alone.
It's not the silence so profound
That one imagines would surround
A person on his own.

The ceaseless ticking of a clock
Upon a bedroom shelf.
And when it sounds its golden chime,
Telling the passing of the time,
One quite forgets oneself.

The sudden twittering of a bird,
Intrudes upon my thoughts.
It is a sound I've often heard,
And also one that I've preferred
To many other sorts.

On all these things I muse and see,
Whilst I am on my own.
I feel so very light and free,
And happiness steals over me,
When I am quite alone.

—Bruce Findlay, 4A.

A MOUNTAIN

Whose lofty crags tower on high?
Whose rugged slopes dare defy
The man-insect to reach the sky?
A mountain.

Where does the wild bold-eagle nest?
Where does its young remain at rest
Nestled on the towering crest?
A mountain.

On which the snow in winter falls;
On which the wild north-east wind calls,
And dash's clouds against thy walls:
A mountain.

O mount most fair, would I were there,
And might with thee thy beauty share!

—Trevor Ethell, 4A.

" ATTACK "

As the first rays from the newly-risen sun began to push the darkness back, the officer was preparing his plan of attack. Behind him, ever vigilant eyes roaming systematically over the surrounding countryside, were fifty soldiers, his portion of the main attack force. Below the soldiers was the enemy radar station, basking in the early morning sun. The defending garrison, however, was alert, waiting for the attack which they knew would come.

Suddenly, the shrill blast of a whistle slashed the silence, and the thoughts of the soldiers on the hill became one, attack!

Down the hill they ran, firing as they went, their glistening sub-machine guns and rifles spitting fire and death to all within their deadly range. The fighting was bitter and long. Both sides suffered many casualties, but at last the station was in the hands of the attackers.

As the last of the luckless defenders retreated over the hill, the final rays of the sun fell upon the radar station. They lit a ruined, rock-marked scene, bearing grim testimony to the futility of war.
